

Subject: English

Key Stage	Low Stakes Quiz	Cultural Capital	Practice	Flipped	Frequency
3	✓	✓	✗	✗	Once a week
Subject Homework Rationale	Research by the Sutton Trust shows that there is the potential for adding 5 months to the progress of each student through their school career if individual student attempts effective homework tasks. In order to be most effective, homework should be an integral part of learning, relating directly to learning in lessons. Year 9 English homework will help the development of students' skills in both English Language and English Literature in preparation for GCSE as well as ensuring their understanding, and enjoyment of, all aspects of English is encouraged through the exploration of performance, language, and life experiences.

Subject: English Language

Key Stage	Low Stakes Quiz	Cultural Capital	Practice	Flipped	Frequency
4	✓	✓	✓	✓	Once a fortnight
Subject Homework Rationale	Research by the Sutton Trust shows that there is the potential for adding 5 months to the progress of each student through their school career if individual student attempts effective homework tasks. In order to be most effective, homework should be an integral part of learning, relating directly to learning in lessons. English Language homework will help the development of students' skills as well as ensuring a wider understanding, and enjoyment of, the English language through the exploration of both written and spoken language. In addition to these familiar homework approaches, students in years 10 and 11 might be asked to practise exam skills developed in lessons; very occasionally, students may also be asked to read, and prepare, short texts for further exploration in lessons.

Subject: English Literature

Key Stage	Low Stakes Quiz	Cultural Capital	Practice	Flipped	Frequency
4	✓	✓	✓	✗	Once a fortnight
5	✗	✓	✓	✓	Once a week by each teacher
Subject Homework Rationale	Research by the Sutton Trust shows that there is the potential for adding 5 months to the progress of each student through their school career if individual student attempts effective homework tasks. In order to be most effective, homework should be an integral part of learning, relating directly to learning in lessons. GCSE English Literature homework will help the development of students' skills as well as ensuring a wider understanding, and enjoyment of, the literature through the exploration of texts and performance. In addition to these familiar homework approaches, students in years 10 and 11 might be asked to practise exam skills developed in lessons. At KS5, English Literature homework is based around a widening of contextual knowledge which is required and tested in the four separate course elements. Wider-reading for pleasure is not a 'set' homework but expected; practice questions are set at appropriate moments to aid skill development and exam practice.				